Session 1: Get Moving, Get Learning

Sally Shaver, Instructor

Sally will share the importance of movement and music activities in brain development for young children. She will also discuss how children learn academic concepts through movement. Come ready to participate and learn activities that can be done in your classroom.

Session 2: Strategies for Busy Boys (and Girls)

Jo Kramer, Instructor

Do the "busy" children in your care have you ready to pull out your hair? Jo Kramer will give you brain building activities that your boys (and girls) will want to sit for. From construction and simple machines, to cowboys, dinosaurs and racecars, Jo shares her ideas to keep your busy boys (and girls) learning.

- 1 business day prior to class start date, no refund.

Instructor Biographies

Sally Shaver

Sally is from Ames and has been helping early childhood educators and teachers learn the significance of action-based learning since 2004. Her presentation will focus on the latest brain research and practical classroom activities that will get children up and moving while simultaneously teaching them academic concepts. Since 85% of children are kinesthetic learners, Sally is a firm believer in teaching children through movement activities. In addition, Shaver has been a physical educator for over twenty years helping children and adults learn the importance of staying physically active both on the body and on the brain. She became a Certified Laughter Leader through the World Laughter Tour because she enjoys sharing how laughter and humor can improve health and enjoyment of life.

Jo Kramer

Jo Kramer has spent her lifetime as a teacher to her nieces and nephews, children and as an in-home child care provider. Jo builds on her experience to deliver energetic sessions filled with great advice and take-home curriculum. Fellow early childhood educators enjoy her website www.MakingLearningFun.com. Here, Kramer extends her classes into free printable activities to fit every theme and educational need. You never know what to expect in Jo's sessions, but whether she has you singing, dancing, or building make-and-takes you will stay busy, interested and inspired.

Enrollment in this program is a commitment to the required 100% on-time attendance. Certificates will be issued to those who successfully complete the program.

No partial certificates can be considered or issued.

This is an adult education class. No children will be admitted.
